for about a week.

Whilst at Government House a big garden-p was given, at which I met Mrs. X. I was introd as Captain Campbell. Some months later I met her in South Africa, and she would insis addressing me as Major Campbell. After s time I asked her why she called me "Major," she said she knew I was only a Captain really she had been brought up always to address off with a rank higher than the one they held.

After leaving Government House, my wife appreciation of the way the Irish Sea Flotilla kept the situation during the past ten days. "The loss of the Leinster (giving rise to an amount of uneasiness among cross-Channel Irish Sea, bad weather, full moon, and defects, necessitated an extra call on the part of the Flotilla. "I have had no hesitation when keeping the boats out when they were due off." I knew they would answer the call. "Our Armies are advancing towards and need all the reinforcements and supplies they can get. It is up to us to do what we can for them up by keeping the enemy under, and as many ships as possible in the area. "You have all done well in all these situations may yet arise. meet them.
